

ETHNICITY

Westchester County is expected to become more diversified by 2030, with a significant decline in the proportion of white, non-Hispanic persons and significant increases in Hispanics and Asian/Pacific Islanders.

The white, Non-Hispanic cohort is expected to decline in numbers by 25.3 percent which will result in a 23.4 percent decline in the proportion of this group within the county. While Black non-Hispanics are expected to increase by 21.4 percent, increases in other ethnic groups are expected to be more dramatic: 97.1 percent in Native Americans, 136.3 percent in Hispanics and 175.2 percent in Asian/Pacific Islanders. The growth of Hispanics will result in a 16.2 percent increase in the proportion of Hispanic residents in the county. The minority groups within the county will comprise 58.2 percent of the population in 2030 compared to 34.9 percent in 2000.

Source: Population estimates and projections provided by Warren & Poole