

Withdrawals, Incompletes and Failures: These courses will figure in the total number of credits attempted. Repeating such grades will mean that a student may use his/her eligibility without accruing the adequate number of credits to graduate. If you withdraw fully from the college or stop attending all of your classes before 60% of the semester is completed you may lose some of your federal aid and will be billed by the college for expenses not covered by your reduced aid.

Repeated Courses: Students will not receive State aid for repeated courses in which a passing grade was received, unless such a grade is not accepted in their curriculum. Effective for the 2011-12 academic year Federal guidelines permit a student to receive aid once for a course in which a passing grade was received.

Transfer credits: accepted credits transferred into the college will be used to determine total credits earned and credits attempted, but will not impact on your GPA at this college.

Financial aid rules and regulations are subject to change. Students are strongly urged to meet with a Financial Aid Counselor to discuss any concerns regarding eligibility for aid.
